
Prerequisite Coursework Bundle: Assistants Certification

INTRODUCTION

This course bundle includes three courses that satisfy coursework requirements for individuals seeking ASHA certification as an audiology assistant or a speech-language pathology assistant. (These courses are not eligible for ASHA CEUs.)

The bundle includes:

- Confidentiality in the Speech, Language, and Hearing Professions
- Ethical Professional Behavior and ASHA Assistants Code of Conduct
- Safety Precautions in Speech, Language, and Hearing Professions

The first course provides an overview of privacy laws affecting speech, language, and hearing professionals. The presenter discusses privacy laws and reviews clinical scenarios in both health care and school settings.

The second course provides a review of the ASHA Assistants Code of Conduct, which provides a framework and guide to support day-to-day decision-making. The presenter describes each component of the Code of Conduct and highlights clinical scenarios that apply the Code of Conduct.

The third course provides an overview of safety precautions for speech, language, and hearing professionals in both health care and school settings. The presenter discusses safe and effective practices and reviews relevant clinical scenarios.

What is a course set?

A course set is a collection of education programs. In one transaction, you get access to a group of related programs. You can complete each program at your leisure. The courses are also available for individual sale.
