DISCLOSURES

Differentiated Instruction: A Culturally-Congruent Practice, by Ella Inglebret, Susan Rae Banks-Joseph, CHiXapkaid, & Kaid'dub Pavel, published in ASHA SIG 14 Perspectives, Vol. 1, Part 2, 2016

Financial Disclosures
Ella Inglebret, Susan Rae Banks-Joseph, CHiXapkaid, & Kaid'dub Pavel report no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Ella Inglebret, Susan Rae Banks-Joseph, CHiXapkaid, & Kaid'dub Pavel report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Need for Culturally Responsive Literacy Instruction in Native American Communities, by Matthew Gillispie, published in ASHA SIG 14 Perspectives, Vol. 1, Part 2, 2016

Financial Disclosures
Matthew Gillispie is the project director for the personnel preparation grant described in the article. The Culturally Responsive Early Literacy Instruction: American Indian/Alaska Native (CRELI: AI/AN) grant is funded by the U.S. Department of Education: Office of Special Education Programs.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Matthew Gillispie reports no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Creating a Culturally-Responsive Speech and Language Program in a Tribal Community, by Sarah Ross, published in ASHA SIG 14 Perspectives, Vol. 1, Part 2, 2016

Financial Disclosures
Sarah Ross reports no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Sarah Ross reports no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Historical Influences on Health Care and Education in Native American Communities, by Joshuaa Allison-Burbank, published in ASHA SIG 14 Perspectives, Vol. 1, Part 2, 2016

Financial Disclosures
Joshuaa Allison-Burbank reports no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Joshuaa Allison-Burbank reports no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.