FACULTY

Tami Altschuler MA, CCC-SLP, is a speech-language pathologist and clinical specialist in patient-provider communication at NYU Langone Medical Center in New York City. She is spearheading hospital-wide initiatives to establish communication access for all patients throughout the continuum of care. Altschuler is a current board member of the United States Society for Augmentative and Alternative Communication (USSAAC) in the role of ISAAC Liaison, on the conference committee for the ISAAC 2021 Conference, and an active member of the Patient-Provider Communication Forum. She has presented nationally and internationally as well as published on the topic of patient-provider communication.

Financial Disclosures:
- Financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures:
- United States Society for Augmentative and Alternative Communication (USSAAC) Board of Directors
- Member of Patient-Provider Communication Forum