FACULTY

Lissa Power-deFur, PhD, CCC-SLP, is Interim Dean of the College of Education and Human Services at Longwood University, where she has taught the “Ethics and Professional Issues” graduate class since 2007. Previously, she worked at the Virginia Department of Education, where she served as a Director in the Office of Special Education and Student Services, serving as a speech-language-hearing consultant and had responsibility for revision of the Virginia special education regulations. Power-deFur has served as a member of the ASHA Board of Ethics and as ASHA’s Vice President of Ethics and Professional Issues in Speech-Language Pathology (2014–2016). She regularly writes and presents in the areas of ethics and special education, often integrating special education requirements with ethical principles, with a focus on resolution of ethical issues. She received the ASHA Leader Outstanding Recognition for her article on special education eligibility in 2012. She has been an active volunteer in both her state association and ASHA throughout her professional career.

Financial Disclosures:

- Financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures:

- None

Brenda Chafin Seal, PhD, CCC-SLP, is Professor Emerita in the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders at James Madison University and retired (2009–2019) Professor and Director of Speech-Language Pathology in the Department of Hearing, Speech, and Language Sciences at Gallaudet University.

Financial Disclosures:

- Complimentary Connect registration

Nonfinancial Disclosures:

- None