FACULTY

Josephine (Josie) Sevier Alston, MA, CCC-SLP, is chief of the Division of Speech-Language Pathology in the Department of Otolaryngology and Head and Neck Surgery at the University of Mississippi Medical Center (UMMC), where she manages a large team of 30 SLPs. Alston also functions as the clinical director of the UMMC Voice and Swallowing Center and currently specializes in the evaluation and treatment of voice, resonance, airway, dysphagia, and head and neck cancer disorders. Alston was elected to the executive board of the Mississippi Speech-Language-Hearing Association (MSHA) as the vice-president of Healthcare for 2020–2022. In addition, from 2013 to the present, Alston volunteers as a board member for the Mississippi Council on Developmental Disabilities. She is an active ASHA volunteer, ASHA Convention speaker, 2019 graduate of the ASHA Leadership Development program, and ASHA SIG 3 and SIG 11 affiliate. In the June 2017 issue of The ASHA Leader, Alston authored the cover story, "Breaking Out of Burnout," which highlighted her own personal experiences with burnout and embarking on a leadership role. She received a Master of Arts degree in speech-language pathology from the University of Memphis in 1997, and her undergraduate work was completed at the University of Georgia.

Financial Disclosures:

- Financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation
- Employee of University of Mississippi Medical Center
- Consulting fee from Atos Medical Inc. as an Advisory Council Member

Nonfinancial Disclosures:

- Board member and volunteer for Mississippi Council on Developmental Disabilities
- Board member and volunteer for Mississippi Speech-Language-Hearing Association (MSHA)
- ASHA committee volunteer