FACULTY

Sana Tibi, PhD, has doctorates in Communication Sciences & Disorders and Cognitive Studies of Reading. Currently, Tibi is an Assistant Professor in the School of Communication Science and Disorders at Florida State University. Tibi has more than 20 years of international clinical, research, and higher education teaching experiences; has served on multiple organizations as a literacy expert; and has contributed to developing literacy assessment tools in Arabic. Tibi has done research on literacy in Arabic and cross-linguistically, and created reading assessment tools with psychometric validity. Tibi’s research findings contribute to the scientific body of knowledge on literacy and serve an important role in our cross-linguistic understanding of the key predictors that contribute to success in reading and the potential factors that cause reading difficulties. Tibi teaches graduate and undergraduate courses and seminars in the areas of communication disorders, language, and literacy.

Financial Disclosures
- Financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures
- None

Peter Bowers, PhD, is an educational consultant/researcher.

Financial Disclosures
- Financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures
- None