

FACULTY

Wendy LeBorgne, PhD, CCC-SLP, is a sought-after speech-language pathologist, speaker, author, and vocal-athlete coach regarding elite voices and impactful communication. From the boardroom to the bright lights of Broadway, Dr. Wendy's vocal athletes range from Fortune 100 CEOs to Grammy award-winning artists. Her clients currently can be heard on diverse influential platforms including network television, TED talks, podcasts, film, cruise ships, Broadway, off-Broadway, national tours, commercial music tours, politics, preaching, board positions, and opera stages around the world. She believes that your voice is your most important communication asset. Her TEDx talk, "Vocal Branding Beyond Words: How Your Voice Shapes Your Communication Image," enlightens audiences on the elements of voice that impact authentic, engaged communication. To best meet the needs of her patients and clients, after a 24-year career serving as a voice pathologist and clinical director, she founded her own private practice based in Cincinnati, Ohio, where she evaluates, treats, and maximizes vocal athletes with high-impact voice and communication demands. LeBorgne's original peer-reviewed research has been published in multiple international journals and numerous voice textbooks. She presents nationally and internationally on the elite professional voice and is co-author of the best-selling book, The Vocal Athlete.

Financial Disclosures

- CEO and owner of Professional Voice Consultants, LLC
- Financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures

- Member of ASHA's Health Care Economics Committee

Neela Swanson, BA, joined the ASHA staff in 2003. Swanson graduated from Berea College in Berea, Kentucky, with a degree in Speech Communication. She has more than 15 years of experience in the coding and payment policy arena and currently serves as ASHA's Director of Health Care Policy for Coding and Reimbursement on the Health Care and Education Policy team. She is ASHA's primary expert and advocate for health care coding policy and code development and is a resource for ASHA members regarding coding and payment. Swanson works with the ASHA Health Care Economics Committee, the American Medical Association CPT Editorial Panel and Relative Value Update Committee, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, ASHA members, and other specialty societies on Health Care Common Procedure Coding System (HCPCS), Current Procedural Terminology (CPT), and International Classification of Diseases (ICD) coding issues related to audiology and speech-language pathology.

Financial Disclosures

- ASHA employee

Nonfinancial Disclosures

- Contributor or author for multiple for-sale ASHA products on the topic of health care payment, coding, and payer advocacy; receives no compensation for product sales