Safety Precautions in Speech, Language, and Hearing Professions

INTRODUCTION

This course provides an overview of safety precautions for speech, language, and hearing professionals in both health care and school settings. The presenter discusses safe and effective practices and reviews relevant clinical scenarios.

The course satisfies the universal precautions coursework requirement for individuals seeking ASHA certification as an audiology assistant or a speech-language pathology assistant. (This course is not eligible for ASHA CEUs.)

LEARNING OUTCOMES

You will be able to:

• Identify the potentially infectious materials you are most likely to encounter in your work setting
• Implement safe and effective practices for handwashing, use of personal protective equipment, and handling of potentially contaminated items
• List key components of an exposure control plan
