FACULTY

Gail D. Chermak, PhD, CCC-A, is a professor of audiology and chair of the Department of Speech and Hearing Sciences, Elson S. Floyd College of Medicine, at Washington State University Health Sciences in Spokane. An internationally recognized authority on central auditory processing disorder (CAPD), she has authored or edited six books; published 135 papers, book chapters, and monographs; and presented more than 200 peer reviewed and invited lectures, seminars, and posters at national and international professional and scientific conferences. Her two-volume Handbook of Central Auditory Processing Disorder (edited with Frank Musiek, and now in its 2nd edition), is considered the definitive text on CAPD. She has received numerous honors and awards, including the 2010 American Academy of Audiology’s (AAA) Distinguished Achievement Award and Honors of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) in 2014, the highest honor the Association bestows. She served on the 2005 ASHA Work Group on CAPD, which authored a technical report and position statement, and the 2010 AAA Task Force, which authored clinical practice guidelines for the diagnosis, treatment, and management of children and adults with CAPD. She served as program chair for the first and second global conferences on CAPD, held in conjunction with the 2012 and 2014 AAA conventions, and she served on the program committee for the AAA Auditory Research Conference (ARC) in 2016.

Financial Disclosures:
- Professor and chair of the Department of Speech and Hearing Sciences, Elson S. Floyd College of Medicine, at Washington State University Health Sciences
- Royalties from Plural Publishing
- Financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures:
- No nonfinancial relationships to the content of this presentation