FACULTY

Geralyn R. Timler, PhD, CCC-SLP, is an associate professor in Communication Sciences and Disorders at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Virginia. Her research and clinical interests focus on social communication skills in preschoolers and school-age children. She has examined the use of peer conflict tasks, narrative and conversational analyses, parent report, and child self-report to describe the social communication profiles of children with attention deficit/hyperactivity disorder, fetal alcohol spectrum disorder, autism spectrum disorder, and specific language impairment.

Financial Disclosures
- Employee of James Madison University
- Financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures
- Presentation discusses rating scales developed in presenter’s Social Communication and Language Evaluation (SCALE) lab