

FACULTY

Derek E. Daniels, PhD, CCC-SLP, is an Associate Professor in the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders at Wayne State University, where he teaches undergraduate and graduate courses. He received a 2018 Excellence in Teaching Award from Wayne State University's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Daniels has been a certified speech-language pathologist since 2002. He also serves as an Associate Editor for the Journal of Fluency Disorders.

Daniels is a person who stutters, provides clinical services for people who stutter, and supervises graduate student training in stuttering. He has participated in many self-help events, workshops, and clinical training programs for people who stutter. Daniels' research focuses on public perceptions of people who stutter, identity construction, psychosocial experiences, and intersectionality. He is the President-Elect of the Michigan Speech Language Hearing Association.

Financial Disclosures

- Complimentary ASHA Learning Pass subscription from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures

- ASHA member
- ASHA SIG 4 affiliate

Kia Noelle Johnson, PhD, CCC-SLP, is an Associate Professor in the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders at the University of Houston in Houston, Texas. She completed her PhD in Hearing and Speech Sciences at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine. She received a Master's and Baccalaureate degree in Communication Disorders from Howard University and Truman State University, respectively. Johnson specializes in fluency and fluency disorders, with a focus on children who stutter. Her current research interest is in the examination of speech disfluencies in culturally and linguistically diverse children who do and do not stutter. Aside from teaching undergraduate and graduate courses, she presents her research at local, national, and international scholarly conferences and has first-authored and co-authored many research publications. Johnson serves on the ASHA Board of Directors as the National Advisor to the National Student Speech Language Hearing Association (NSSLHA). She is also a 19-year member of the National Black Association for Speech-Language and Hearing (NBASLH) where she currently serves as Chair of the Board of Directors.

Financial Disclosures

- Associate Professor at University of Houston
- Complimentary ASHA Learning Pass subscription from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures

- ASHA member
- ASHA Board of Directors – National Advisor to National NSSLHA
- Chair of NBASLH
- ASHA SIG 4 affiliate

Angela M. Medina, PhD, CCC-SLP, is an Assistant Professor in the Communication Sciences and Disorders Graduate Program at Florida International University. She earned a Bachelor of Arts in Mass Communication from the University of South Florida in 2006 and a Master of Arts in Linguistics from Florida International University in 2010. She earned her PhD in Applied Language and Speech Sciences from the University of Louisiana at Lafayette in 2014. Medina teaches fluency disorders, phonological disorders, bilingual assessment, phonetics, and linguistics. Her research interests include stuttering, culturally and linguistically diverse populations, applied linguistics, and qualitative research methods. She is the leader of the Miami chapter of the National Stuttering Association. Medina is a member of ASHA's Fluency Disorders and Cultural/Linguistic Diversity special interest groups.

Financial Disclosures

- Complimentary ASHA Learning Pass subscription from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures

- ASHA SIG 4 affiliate
- ASHA SIG 14 affiliate
- National Stuttering Association Chapter Leader