

FACULTY

Angela J. Dixon, MA, CCC-SLP, is the Manager of Outpatient Rehabilitation Services at Riley Hospital for Children in Indianapolis, Indiana. She has been a member of the Riley Cleft & Craniofacial Program since 2003, specializing in the evaluation and treatment of cleft palate and velopharyngeal dysfunction-related speech disorders. Dixon is on the Coordinating Committee for ASHA SIG 5 (Craniofacial and Velopharyngeal Disorders) and is the Co-Chair on the Learning Resource Committee through the American Cleft Palate-Craniofacial Association.

Financial Disclosures

- Salaried employee at Riley Hospital for Children
- Complimentary ASHA Learning Pass subscription from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures

- ASHA member
- Assistant Coordinator of ASHA SIG 5
- American Cleft Palate-Craniofacial Association (ACPA) Member
- Co-Chair of Learning Resource Committee for ACPA

Dennis Ruscello, PhD, CCC-SLP, is Professor Emeritus of Communication Sciences and Disorders at West Virginia University. His major research and clinical interests are in sound system disorders, including those associated with craniofacial anomalies. He has published more than 100 manuscripts and presented approximately 175 papers to various professional groups. Ruscello is an ASHA Fellow and was awarded the Honors of ASHA.

Financial Disclosures

- Complimentary ASHA Learning Pass subscription from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures

- ASHA member
- ASHA SIG 5 affiliate