

FACULTY

Lesley Edwards-Gaither, PhD, CCC-SLP, has worked as a clinician, Research Director, and scholar in several sectors, including the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota, Department of Defense Europe, and Harcourt Assessment. She has more than 10 years of telepractice technology experience, and her areas of research include the intersections of communication, culture, and technology. She received her PhD from Howard University in Washington, DC, and she currently teaches multicultural issues in human communication at George Washington University. Edwards-Gaither is a recipient of the Just-Julian Research Assistantship and the National Military Family Association Scholarship. She is an advocate for fellow military spouses and works to advance licensure-related issues, including the Audiology Speech-Language Pathology Interstate Compact.

Pronouns: she/her

Financial Disclosures

- Independent telepractice contractor and consultant
- Complimentary ASHA Learning Pass subscription from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures

- Affiliate of ASHA SIG 18
- Member of ASHA SIG 18 Perspectives Editorial Board