DISCLOSURES

Enriching Communicative Environments: Leveraging Advances in Neuroplasticity for Improving Outcomes in Neurogenic Communication Disorders, by Julie A. Hengst, Melissa C. Duff, and Theresa A. Jones, published in American Journal of Speech-Language Pathology

Financial Disclosures
Julie A. Hengst, Melissa C. Duff, and Theresa A. Jones report no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Julie A. Hengst is the treasurer of the Clinical Aphasiology Conference. Melissa C. Duff and Theresa A. Jones report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Financial Disclosures
William S. Evans is an employee of Pittsburgh VA and the University of Pittsburgh. Michael Walsh Dickey is an employee of VA Pittsburgh Healthcare System and received grant funding from VA Rehabilitation Research & Development. Yina M. Quique reports no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Michael Walsh Dickey is a standing member of a review panel for the Centers for Scientific Review, National Institutes of Health. Yina M. Quique and William S. Evans report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Financial Disclosures
Christina Nessler received a grant from VHA – RR&D. Julie L. Wambaugh is an employee of VA Salt Lake City Health Care System and University of Utah. She received grant funding from VA Rehabilitation Research and Development. Lisa D. Bunker reports no financial relationships to the content of this article.
Nonfinancial Disclosures
Lisa D. Bunker, Christina Nessler, and Julie L. Wambaugh report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Financial Disclosures
This research was funded by NIH, the Boston University Dudley Allen Sargent Research Fund, the VA Pittsburgh Healthcare System Geriatric Research Education and Clinical Center, and the VA RR&D service. William S. Evans is an employee of VA Pittsburgh and the University of Pittsburgh. William D. Hula is an employee of Veterans Affairs Pittsburgh Healthcare System. Jeffrey J. Starns reports no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
William D. Hula is a mentor on Dr. Evans’ VA Rehabilitation Research and Development Research Career Development Award, which supported part of his work on this project. William S. Evans and Jeffrey J. Starns report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Financial Disclosures
Jessica A. Brown, Sarah E. Wallace, Kelly Knollman-Porter, and Karen Hux report no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Jessica A. Brown, Sarah E. Wallace, Kelly Knollman-Porter, and Karen Hux report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

A Large-Scale Comparison of Main Concept Production Between Persons With Aphasia and Persons Without Brain Injury, by Sarah Grace Hudspeth Dalton and Jessica D. Richardson, published in American Journal of Speech-Language Pathology
Financial Disclosures
Sarah Grace Hudspeth Dalton is an employee of University of New Mexico. Jessica D. Richardson is an employee of University of New Mexico and receives funding from NIH NIGMS.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Sarah Grace Hudspeth Dalton and Jessica D. Richardson report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Financial Disclosures
Shenly Glenn started and is employed by Miro Health. Donna C. Tippett received salary support for work for this paper from NIH. Shauna Berube, Jodi Nonnemacher, Cornelia Demsky, Sadhvi Saxena, Amy Wright, and Argye E. Hillis report no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Shauna Berube, Jodi Nonnemacher, Cornelia Demsky, Shenly Glenn, Sadhvi Saxena, Amy Wright, Donna C. Tippett, and Argye E. Hillis report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Follow-Up on the Story Goodness Index for Characterizing Discourse Deficits Following Traumatic Brain Injury, by André Lindsey, Erin Hurley, Jennifer Mozeiko, and Carl Coelho, published in American Journal of Speech-Language Pathology

Financial Disclosures
Jennifer Mozeiko is an employee of University of Connecticut. André Lindsey, Erin Hurley, and Carl Coelho report no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
André Lindsey, Erin Hurley, Jennifer Mozeiko, and Carl Coelho report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

The Intensive Cognitive-Communication Rehabilitation Program for Young Adults With Acquired Brain Injury, by Natalie Gilmore, Katrina Ross, and Swathi Kiran, published in American Journal of Speech-Language Pathology
Financial Disclosures
Participants reported in this study used the Constant Therapy software as part of their treatment program. Katrina Ross was formerly employed by the Aphasia Research Lab at BU, where the study was conducted. Swathi Kiran is a paid scientific consultant for The Learning Corporation. Natalie Gilmore reports no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Katrina Ross was previously a volunteer with the Aphasia Research Lab at BU, where the study was conducted. Swathi Kiran is a member of the Special Commission on Brain Injury, Massachusetts State Commission. Natalie Gilmore reports no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Financial Disclosures
Marion C. Leaman and Lisa A. Edmonds report no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Marion C. Leaman and Lisa A. Edmonds report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.