DISCLOSURES

Motivating Adolescents to Participate in Literacy Intervention: A Case Example From Telepractice
Ginger G. Collins
School of Speech, Language, Hearing, and Occupational Sciences, University of Montana
Missoula, MT

Disclosures
Financial: Ginger G. Collins has reported no relevant financial interests to disclose.
Nonfinancial: Ginger G. Collins has reported no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.

Using a Collaborative Academic Conversation Approach to Improve Language and Literacy
Claudia Dunaway
San Diego Unified School District
San Diego, CA
Carlee Lewis
San Diego Unified School District
San Diego, CA

Disclosures
Financial: Claudia Dunaway and Carlee Lewis have reported no relevant financial interests to disclose.
Nonfinancial: Claudia Dunaway and Carlee Lewis have reported no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.

Semantic Reasoning: Building Vocabulary With Critical Thinking Skills
Karen A. Fallon
Speech-Language Pathology Department, Gwynedd Mercy University
Gwynedd Valley, PA
Beth Lawrence
Communication Apptitude Inc
Columbia, MD
Deena Seifert
Communication Apptitude Inc
Columbia, MD

Disclosures
Financial: Karen A. Fallon has reported no relevant financial interests to disclose. Beth Lawrence and Deena Seifert are the owners of InferCabulary, a software program briefly mentioned in this clinical focus article.
Nonfinancial: Karen A. Fallon, Beth Lawrence, and Deena Seifert have reported no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.
Sketch and Speak: An Oral, Written, and Graphic Expository Strategy Intervention for Secondary Students
Teresa A. Ukrainetz
Utah State University
Logan, UT

Amy K. Peterson
Utah State University
Logan, UT

Disclosures
Financial: Teresa A. Ukrainetz is an employee of Utah State University and earns book royalties from Pro-Ed. Amy K. Peterson is a PhD student funded through a U.S. Department of Education Office of Special Education Programs Personnel Development grant.
Nonfinancial: Teresa A. Ukrainetz and Amy K. Peterson have reported no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.

Supporting Content and Disciplinary Literacy Success for Adolescents With LLD: A Blended and Contextualized Morphological Awareness Strategy Approach
Julie A. Wolter
School of Speech, Language, Hearing, and Occupational Sciences, University of Montana
Missoula, MT

Laura Green
Department of Communication Sciences and Oral Health, Texas Woman’s University
Denton, TX

Disclosures
Financial: Julie A. Wolter and Laura Green have reported no relevant financial interests to disclose.
Nonfinancial: Julie A. Wolter and Laura Green have reported no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.