

DISCLOSURES

The Power of Story in Identity Renegotiation: Clinical Approaches to Supporting Persons Living With Aphasia

Katie A. Strong

Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, Central Michigan University
Mount Pleasant, MI

Barbara B. Shadden

Program in Communication Disorders, University of Arkansas–Fayetteville
Fayetteville, AR

Disclosures

Financial: Katie A. Strong has no relevant financial interests to disclose. Barbara B. Shadden has no relevant financial interests to disclose.

Nonfinancial: Katie A. Strong has no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose. Barbara B. Shadden has no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.

Clinical Practice Recommendations for Improving Life Participation for People With Aphasia in Long-Term Care

Jamie H. Azios

Department of Speech and Hearing Sciences, Lamar University
Beaumont, TX

Jack S. Damico

Department of Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences, University of Colorado
Boulder
Boulder, CO

Disclosures

Financial: Jamie H. Azios has no relevant financial interests to disclose. Jack S. Damico has no relevant financial interests to disclose.

Nonfinancial: Jamie H. Azios has no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose. Jack S. Damico has no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.

Teaching and Mentoring Students in the Life Participation Approach to Aphasia Service Delivery Perspective

Jerry K. Hoepner

Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, University of Wisconsin–Eau Claire
Eau Claire, WI

Tom W. Sather

Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, University of Wisconsin–Eau Claire
Mayo Clinic Health Systems–Eau Claire
Eau Claire, WI

Disclosures

Financial: Jerry K. Hoepner and is an employee at the University of Wisconsin–Eau Claire. Tom W. Sather is an employee of the University of Wisconsin–Eau Claire.

Nonfinancial: Jerry K. Hoepner is involved in the Chippewa Valley Aphasia Camp, Chippewa Valley Aphasia Network. Tom W. Sather is involved in the Chippewa Valley Aphasia Camp, Chippewa Valley Aphasia Network.

Spotlight on the Clinician in the Life Participation Approach to Aphasia: Balancing Relationship-Centered Care and Professionalism

*Rochelle Cohen-Schneider
Clinical and Education Services, Aphasia Institute
Toronto, Ontario, Canada*

*Melodie T. Chan
Research & Development, Aphasia Institute
Toronto, Ontario, Canada*

*Denise M. McCall
Snyder Center for Aphasia Life Enhancement (SCALE) at The League Aphasia Center
Baltimore, MD*

*Allison M. Tedesco
Client Services, Aphasia Institute
Toronto, Ontario, Canada*

*Ann P. Abramson
Snyder Center for Aphasia Life Enhancement (SCALE) at The League Aphasia Center
University of Maryland School of Social Work
Baltimore, MD*

Disclosures

*Financial: Rochelle Cohen-Schneider is employed by and receives a salary from the Aphasia Institute. Melodie T. Chan is employed by and receives a salary from the Aphasia Institute. Denise M. McCall has no relevant financial interests to disclose. Allison M. Tedesco is employed by and receives a salary from the Aphasia Institute. Ann P. Abramson has no relevant financial interests to disclose.
Nonfinancial: Rochelle Cohen-Schneider has no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose. Melodie T. Chan has no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose. Denise M. McCall has no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose. Allison M. Tedesco has no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose. Ann P. Abramson has no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.*

Designing Occupational Therapy Home Programs for People With Aphasia: Aphasia-Friendly Modifications

*Sarah E. Wallace
Department of Speech-Language Pathology, Duquesne University
Pittsburgh, PA*

*Elena V. Donoso Brown
Department of Occupational Therapy, Duquesne University
Pittsburgh, PA*

*Anna Saylor
Department of Speech-Language Pathology, Duquesne University
Pittsburgh, PA*

Erica Lapp

*Department of Speech-Language Pathology, Duquesne University
Pittsburgh, PA*

Joanna Eskander

*Department of Occupational Therapy, Duquesne University
Pittsburgh, PA*

Disclosures

Financial: Sarah E. Wallace and Elena V. Donoso Brown are employees of Duquesne University.

Nonfinancial: Sarah E. Wallace, Elena V. Donoso Brown, Anna Saylor, Erica Lapp, and Joanna Eskander are members of the Aging Research and Teaching Consortium.