

DISCLOSURES

Yoga as Therapy for People With Aphasia

Aimee Dietz

*Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, University of Cincinnati College of Allied Health Sciences
Cincinnati, OH*

E. Susan Duncan

Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, Louisiana State University Baton Rouge, LA

Lauren Bislick

*University of Central Florida, School of Communication Sciences and Disorders
Orlando, FL*

Sarah Stegman

*Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, University of Cincinnati College of Allied Health Sciences
Cincinnati, OH*

Jenna Collins

*Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, University of Cincinnati College of Allied Health Sciences
Cincinnati, OH*

Chitrali Mamlekar

*Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, University of Cincinnati College of Allied Health Sciences
Cincinnati, OH*

Rachel Gleason

*Department of Rehabilitation, Exercise, & Nutrition Sciences, University of Cincinnati College of Allied Health Sciences
Cincinnati, OH*

Michael J. McCarthy

*Department of Social Work, University of Northern Arizona
Flagstaff, AZ*

Disclosures

Financial: Aimee Dietz received an Interdisciplinary Seed Grant from the College of Allied Health Sciences, University of Cincinnati, in 2016 and received an honorarium from Project BRIDGE (Building Research Initiatives by Developing Group Effort) to attend a conference supported by Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Institute in October 2018. E. Susan Duncan received an honorarium from Project BRIDGE (Building Research Initiatives by Developing Group Effort) to attend a conference supported by Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Institute in October 2018. Lauren Bislick received an honorarium from Project BRIDGE (Building Research Initiatives by Developing Group Effort) to attend a conference supported by Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Institute in October 2018. Sarah Stegman, Jenna Collins, Chitrali Mamlekar, and Rachel Gleason have no relevant financial interests to disclose. Michael J. McCarthy received an Interdisciplinary Seed Grant from the College of Allied Health Sciences, University of Cincinnati, in 2016.

Nonfinancial: Aimee Dietz, E. Susan Duncan, Lauren Bislick, Sarah Stegman, Jenna Collins, Chitrali Mamlekar, Rachel Gleason, and Michael J. McCarthy have no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.

Incidental Diagnosis of Primary Progressive Aphasia in the Inpatient Setting: A Note to Raise Clinical Awareness

Adithya Chandregowda

*Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, University of South Florida
Tampa, FL*

*Division of Speech Pathology, Department of Neurology, Mayo Clinic
Rochester, MN*

Disclosures

Financial: Adithya Chandregowda has no relevant financial interests to disclose.

Nonfinancial: Adithya Chandregowda has no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.