DISCLOSURES

Their Words, Their World: A Paradigm for Culturally Relevant Family-Centered Intervention
Elizabeth A. Rosenzweig
MGH Institute of Health Professions
Boston, MA

Jenna Voss
Fontbonne University
St. Louis, MO

Disclosures
Financial: Elizabeth A. Rosenzweig and Jenna Voss have reported no financial relationships to the content of this article.
Nonfinancial: Elizabeth A. Rosenzweig and Jenna Voss have reported no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

The Love and Science of Reading: A Promising Instructional Approach for Adolescent Multilingual Learners
Lama K. Farran
Department of Counseling, Higher Education, and Speech-Language Pathology, University of West Georgia
Carrollton, GA

Robert A. Griffin
Department of Literacy and Special Education, University of West Georgia
Carrollton, GA

Disclosures
Financial: Lama K. Farran and Robert A. Griffin have reported no financial relationships to the content of this article.
Nonfinancial: Lama K. Farran and Robert A. Griffin have reported no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Long-Term Impact of Study Abroad on Intercultural Development
Lata A. Krishnan
Department of Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences, Purdue University
West Lafayette, IN

Lan Jin
Center for Intercultural Learning, Mentorship, Assessment, and Research, Purdue University
West Lafayette, IN

Disclosures
Financial: Lata A. Krishnan is a salaried employee at Purdue University. Each year of the study abroad program, the author received internal grants to subsidize student costs for the program. Lan Jin has reported no financial relationships to the content of this article.
Nonfinancial: Lata A. Krishnan and Lan Jin have reported no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.