DISCLOSURES

Using Nominal Group Technique to Identify Key Ethical Concerns Regarding Hearing Aids With Machine Learning
Alida Naudé
Centre for Augmentative and Alternative Communication, University of Pretoria
Pretoria, South Africa

Juan Bornman
Centre for Augmentative and Alternative Communication, University of Pretoria
Pretoria, South Africa

Disclosures
Financial: Alida Naudé and Juan Bornman have reported no financial relationships to the content of this article.
Nonfinancial: Alida Naudé and Juan Bornman have reported no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Syncing Our Global Thinking: A Framework for Contextualized Clinical Reasoning
Thiani Pillay
Speech-Language Pathology Department, University of KwaZulu-Natal
Durban, South Africa

Mershen Pillay
Speech and Language Therapy Department, Massey University
Auckland, New Zealand

Disclosures
Financial: Thiani Pillay and Mershen Pillay have reported no financial relationships to the content of this article.
Nonfinancial: Thiani Pillay has reported no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article. Mershen Pillay is an editorial board member of Perspectives of the ASHA SIGs, SIG 8: Audiology and Public Health.

Communication and Swallowing Disorders: The Effects of Climate Change
Sue Sherratt
Communication Research Australia
Newcastle, New South Wales, Australia

Disclosures
Financial: Sue Sherratt has reported no financial relationships to the content of this article.
Nonfinancial: Sue Sherratt has reported no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.